Please note that Coronavirus and COVID-19 are used interchangeably in this document.

1. What if I lost my job or was required to take leave?

➤ You may qualify for Unemployment Insurance Benefits:

If you have lost your job or your employer forced you to take unpaid time off, you may qualify for Unemployment Insurance benefits (UI) through the California Employment Development Department (EDD).

What are the requirements to get unemployment benefits?

- You must be “able and available to work.” That means you must be authorized to work in the U.S. AND you must be healthy. If you are sick, you may qualify for other benefits, like State Disability Insurance. For more, see Question 6.
- Usually, you need to be looking for work to receive the benefits, BUT if you are temporarily out of work because of COVID-19 and expect to go back to the same employer, you may not be required to seek work.
- Generally, only employees are eligible to receive unemployment insurance, not independent contractors or self-employed workers. However, they may qualify for other benefits, like the new Pandemic Unemployment Assistance. See Question 5 for more information.

When can I get unemployment benefits?

- The usual 1-week waiting period has been waived. You may start getting benefits as soon as EDD can process your application, which usually takes about 3 weeks (note that this estimate depends on the applicant and the volume of applications, which is now at an all-time high).

How much are unemployment benefits?

- It depends on what your income was when you were working. It can be anywhere between $40 and $450 per week.
 - From March 27, 2020 until July 25, 2020, all recipients of unemployment insurance benefits received an extra $600 per week, under the federal Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act.
 - For benefit weeks after July 26, 2020, you may qualify to receive an extra $300 per week for at least three weeks under the Lost Wages Assistance¹ program. To be eligible for the extra $300 per week, you must have been awarded at least $100 per week in benefits and certified that you are unemployed due to COVID-19, either in your unemployment benefits application or with a subsequent certification form sent by EDD. The extra $300 per week is available for a “limited time” only.

¹ The Lost Wages Assistance program was authorized by Presidential Memorandum on August 8, 2020. EDD started distributing these funds on September 7, 2020.

- Unemployment benefits are available for 26 weeks. The CARES Act provides for an additional 13 weeks under the Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation program (PEUC). See Question 15 for more information on PEUC.
- Unemployment benefits generally start on the date you apply for benefits. If you didn't apply for benefits immediately after you became unemployed or your hours were reduced, you can request that EDD backdate your claim by contacting EDD through the "Ask EDD" function on your online account. EDD may decide to backdate your claim, though it is not required to do so.
- To estimate how much your benefits will be, try this online calculator by EDD: <https://www.edd.ca.gov/Unemployment/UI-Calculator.htm>
- For more on how benefits are calculated, check out this guidance from EDD: https://www.edd.ca.gov/pdf_pub_ctr/de8714ab.pdf

Where do I apply? For instructions on how to apply, please see Question 13.

➤ You may be entitled to Waiting Time Penalties:

When your employment is terminated, your employer is required by law to pay you all your wages at the time of layoff/termination, including any accrued vacation pay.

- If you are not paid all of your wages when they are due, you are entitled to one day of wages for every day you wait to get paid, up to a maximum of thirty days.
- To claim your waiting time penalties, you need to file a claim with the California Labor Commissioner's office or small claims court.

2. What if my hours were cut?

➤ You may qualify for Unemployment Insurance Benefits.

What are the requirements for getting unemployment when my hours are cut?

- In addition to the requirements outlined in Question 1, you must meet the EDD's definition of someone who is "partially employed." This means:
 - You are still employed by your employer;
 - You worked less than your normal full-time hours because of lack of work;
 - Your normal pay is reduced because of the lack of work; and
 - Your gross pay, after deducting $25 or 25% (whichever is greater) of your total earnings, is less than your weekly benefit.

- During the coronavirus crisis, EDD has waived the normal requirement that you submit the additional form "Notice of Reduced Earnings" ("DE 2063").

- Usually, you also need to be looking for work to receive the benefits. However, workers who have a temporarily reduced schedule due to COVID-19 and expected to return to their previous schedule with the same employer may not be required to actively seek work each week.

Where do I apply? For instructions on how to apply, please see Question 13.

➤ You may also be entitled to Reporting Time Pay.

If you report to work as normally scheduled, but your employer sends you home before you work half of your usual or scheduled hours:

- Your employer must pay you for half of your usual or scheduled hours at your regular rate of pay, with a minimum of two hours and a maximum of four hours.
- However, an employer is not liable for reporting time pay if work is unavailable because of interruptions caused by an act of God or other cause not within the employer's control. COVID-19 is likely to be considered something outside your employer's control.

3. What if my pay was reduced?

- If your employer reduces your pay without notice (i.e., without telling you ahead of time that your pay would be reduced):
 - Your employer must pay you at your previous rate for any hours already worked;
 - If you choose to continue working, it will be considered as if you have accepted this new reduced rate of pay going forward;
 - You can try to negotiate for a different rate.

- If your employer reduces your pay with notice:
 - Your options are limited to: accepting, negotiating for a different rate, or quitting your job.
 - If you decide to quit your job, you may qualify for Unemployment Insurance Benefits if the EDD determines that you had “good cause” to quit your job based on a “substantial reduction” in pay. There is no set rule as to what amounts to a “substantial reduction.” To determine if there was “good cause” for a voluntary departure based on a reduction in pay, EDD may consider factors such as, but not limited to:
 - Amount of the the wage reduction;
 - The claimant’s prospects for securing other work at a wage about equal with prior earnings;
 - Loss of seniority or other rights associated with a wage level;
 - Opportunities for advancement.
 - Please see Question 1 above for the other requirements to receive UI.

4. How can I get money if I am sick or am quarantined?

You may be eligible for several forms of monetary relief if you get sick or are quarantined, including Federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave, California Supplemental Paid Sick Leave, Paid Sick Leave for Food Sector Employees, California Paid Sick Days, State Disability Insurance, and Workers Compensation.

- If your employer has fewer than 500 employees, you may qualify for paid leave under the federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave Act (EPSLA), part of the Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFRCA).²

What is the paid leave available under the EPSLA?

- Starting April 1, 2020, if your employer has fewer than 500 employees, your employer is required to keep paying at least part of your wages or salary even while you are not working, for up to two weeks (80 hours) if you qualify. These benefits expire on December 31, 2020.

Who qualifies for paid leave under the EPSLA?

- To qualify, you must be currently employed and either working or voluntarily taking time off from work. You do not qualify for EPSLA paid leave if you have been fired, furloughed, or told there is no work, or if your worksite has been shut down.
- Under the federal law, you must work for an employer with fewer than 500 employees. If you are seeking time off so you can care for your child because your child is out of school, some small businesses with fewer than 50 employees may also claim an exemption. Healthcare workers and emergency responders may also be excluded. HOWEVER, many employers not covered by the federal law are still required to provide paid sick leave by state law. See the following section on California Supplemental Paid Sick Leave to see if you qualify.
- You also must need to take leave for one of the following reasons:
 1. You are subject to a Federal, State, or local quarantine or isolation order related to COVID-19;
 2. You have been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19;
 3. You are experiencing symptoms of COVID-19 and are seeking diagnosis;
 4. You are caring for an individual who is subject to a quarantine or isolation order related to COVID-19 or an individual who has been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19;
 5. You are caring for your child whose school or place of care is closed, or child care provider is unavailable, due to COVID-19 related reasons;

² The FFCRA is a federal law which went into effect April 1, 2020. The Act is set to expire on December 31, 2020.

6. You are experiencing any other “substantially-similar condition” as specified by the Secretary of Health and Human Services.
 7. Some local laws, such as Los Angeles and San Jose, also require that employers provide leave if you need to take leave because you are at greater risk for coronavirus, such as if you are over 60 years old or have preexisting health conditions. See Appendix 1 for details.
- To determine your eligibility for paid leave under the EPSLA, you can use this online tool from the Department of Labor:
<https://www.dol.gov/agencies/whd/ffcra/benefits-eligibility-webtool>

How much is the EPSLA paid leave?

- How much you are entitled to for your paid leave depends on the reason you are taking the leave AND your normal wage or salary.
 - If you are taking leave for reasons 1 - 3 above, you are entitled to your normal hourly wage or salary or minimum wage for each hour of leave, for a maximum of $511 per day, or $5,110 total.
 - If you are taking leave for reasons 4 - 6 above, you are entitled to 2/3 of your normal hourly wage or salary, for a maximum of $200 per day, or $2,000 total.

I think I qualify. How do I get paid leave under the EPSLA?

You must request EPSLA leave from your employer. You should do so in writing as soon as you know you will need to take leave. When requesting EPSLA, you must provide your employer the following information:

- Your name
- The date(s) for which you request leave;
- The reason for leave; and
- A statement that you are unable to work because of one of the reasons listed above.

If you are requesting leave to care for your child whose school or place of care is closed, or child care provider is unavailable, you must also provide:

- The name of your child;
- The name of the school, place of care, or child care provider that has closed or become unavailable; and
- A statement that no other suitable person is available to care for your child.

If you are requesting leave because you or a family member were ordered or advised to quarantine, provide the name of the government entity that issued the order or the health care provider that advised quarantine.

Your employer CANNOT require that you take other paid time off such as vacation time before taking Emergency Paid Sick Leave. EPSL cannot replace your other leave benefits you are entitled to. Also, your employer CANNOT require that you search for a replacement.

My employer denied my request for paid leave. What can I do?

You can file a claim with the United States Department of Labor (DOL), a federal agency. For more information, please visit: <https://www.dol.gov/agencies/whd/contact/complaints>. You can also file a complaint with the DOL if your employer retaliates against you for requesting your leave.

➤ You may qualify for COVID-19 Supplemental Paid Sick Leave under California law.

What is supplemental paid sick leave available under California law?

- Food sector workers: Starting April 16, 2020, if you work in the food sector for an entity with more than 500 employees nationwide and are required to perform work outside your home, your employer or hiring entity is required by Labor Code 248 to keep paying your wages or salary even while you are not working, for up to two weeks (80 hours) if you are sick with COVID-19 or subject to a quarantine order.
 - Food sector workers include grocery workers, restaurant or fast food workers, workers at warehouses where food is stored, agricultural workers, and workers who pick-up or deliver any food items.
 - This law applies whether the worker is an employee or independent contractor. So if you are a “gig worker” in the food sector, you may be entitled to paid sick leave under Labor Code 248.

- Healthcare workers and emergency responders: Starting September 19, 2020, if you are a healthcare worker or emergency responder excluded from federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave, your employer is required by Labor Code 248.1 to keep paying your wages or salary even while you are not working, for up to two weeks (80 hours) if you are sick with COVID-19 or subject to a quarantine order.

- Workers in all other sectors: Starting September 19, 2020, if you work for an employer with more than 500 employees nationwide and are required to work outside your home, your employer is required by Labor Code 248.1 to keep paying your wages or salary even while you are not working, for up to two weeks (80 hours) if you are sick with COVID-19 or subject to a quarantine order.
 - This law applies only to employees, not independent contractors.

Who qualifies for paid leave under Labor Code 248 and Labor Code 248.1?

- To qualify, you must be currently employed and either working or voluntarily taking time off from work. You do not qualify for supplemental paid sick leave if you have been fired, furloughed, or told there is no work, or your worksite has been shut down.
- Executive Order N-51-20 and Labor Code 248.1 apply only to employers or hiring entities with over 500 employees nationwide. If your employer has fewer employees, you may qualify for paid sick leave under federal law (see above section).
- You must also be unable to work for one of the following reasons:

- You are subject to a Federal, State, or local quarantine or isolation order related to COVID-19 (this does not include general stay-at-home orders, but is specific to your circumstances);
- You have been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19;
- You are prohibited from working by your employer or hiring entity due to health concerns related to the potential transmission of COVID-19.
- For more information about qualification criteria, visit the Labor Commissioner's FAQ: <https://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/FAQ-for-PSL.html>

How much paid leave can I take under Labor Code 248 and Labor Code 248.1?

- If you work full time, you are entitled to 80 hours of paid leave under Labor Code 248 and 248.1, in addition to any accrued paid sick leave. If you work part time, you are entitled to paid leave in the amount of 14 times the average number of hours worked per day in the past 6 months.
- You are entitled to your normal hourly wage or salary or minimum wage (whichever is higher) for each hour of leave, for a maximum of $511 per day, or $5,110 total.

I think I qualify. How do I get paid leave under Labor Code 248 or Labor Code 248.1?

You must request the supplemental paid sick leave from your employer. You should do so in writing as soon as you know you will need to take leave. You are not required to provide a doctor's note, but if your employer has reason to believe that you are not seeking leave for a valid COVID-19 related reason, you may be required to provide documentation.

My employer denied my request for paid leave. What can I do?

You can file a claim with the Labor Commissioner's Office or a Report of Labor Law Violations. Forms can be found at the Labor Commissioner's Office website, www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/.

Your employer cannot retaliate against you for requesting or taking leave under Labor Code 248 or 248.1, including firing you, cutting your hours, or increasing your workload. If you have been retaliated against for requesting or taking paid sick leave, you can file a claim with the Labor Commissioner's Office.

➤ California Paid Sick Days

What are California paid sick days?

- Even before COVID-19, all employees in California had the right to at least 3 paid sick days that may be used for the prevention, diagnosis, or care of the worker's illness or a family member's illness. An employee starts accruing paid sick days when the employee starts work, and the employee can use the sick days after they have worked for the employer for 90 days.

When can I use paid sick days?

- You can take paid sick leave for yourself or a family member, for preventive care or diagnosis, care or treatment of an existing health condition, or for specified purposes if you are a victim of domestic violence, sexual assault or stalking.
 - Family members include the employee's parent, child, spouse, registered domestic partner, grandparent, grandchild, and sibling.
 - Preventive care would include annual physicals or flu shots.

How many sick days do I get?

- Employers may limit sick days an employee can use to 3 days, unless the employer is operating in a city that provides additional sick days, for example:
 - In the City of Los Angeles, employees are entitled to 6 paid sick days.
 - Places like Berkeley, Emeryville, Oakland, San Diego, San Francisco and Santa Monica require employers to provide more than 3 sick days.
- The employee may decide how much paid sick leave he or she wants to use (for example, whether you want to take an entire day, or only part of a day). Your employer can require you to take a minimum of at least two hours of paid sick leave at a time, but otherwise the determination of how much time is needed is left to the employee.

How do I use my paid sick days?

- Provide notice to your employer as soon as you can once you know you need to miss work. You do not need to provide a doctor's note.
- Your employer CANNOT retaliate against you for using your paid sick days.
- Your employer CANNOT force you to take paid sick days.

My employer denied my request to use my paid sick pay. What can I do?

You can file a claim with the Labor Commissioner's Office or a Report of Labor Law Violations. Forms can be found at the Labor Commissioner's Office website, www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/.

➤ You may qualify for income from State Disability Insurance (SDI)

What is Disability Insurance (SDI)?

- If you are sick or required to quarantine, you may qualify for SDI.
- SDI pays you up to 60% or 70% of your wages, up to $1,300 per week depending on your former income, for up to 52 weeks.

What are the requirements to get State Disability Insurance?

- You must either be employed or actively looking for work at the time your disability begins.
- You must have medical certification of illness, disability, or required quarantine.
- You must have paid into SDI during the base period. How do you know if you paid into SDI? Take a look at your paycheck. If there is a deduction for "CA SDI," or "State Tax" you paid into SDI.

- Workers who are undocumented MAY QUALIFY. Undocumented workers can apply using a paper application and leaving blank the box requesting a social security number. You may need to provide your W2s.

When can I get State Disability Insurance benefits?

The usual 1-week waiting period has been waived. You may start getting benefits as soon as EDD can process your application.

Where do I apply?

Apply with EDD online here: https://www.edd.ca.gov/Disability/SDI_Online.htm. If you are undocumented, you may apply using a paper application and leaving blank the box requesting a social security number.

➤ If you got sick at work, you may qualify for Workers' Compensation

If you believe you contracted coronavirus on the job during the regular course of your work, you may be eligible for workers' compensation benefits, including disability payments and medical treatment.

Under recent California law, if you contracted COVID-19 after March 19, 2020, within 14 days of performing work for your employer outside of your home, it may be presumed that you contracted COVID-19 at work.³ In addition, if you contracted COVID-19 after July 6, 2020, it may also be presumed that you contracted the virus at work if:

- You test positive for COVID-19 during an outbreak at your workplace and your employer has five or more employees;
- You are a healthcare worker or first responder, including:
 - Providers of direct patient care in a health facility, home health agency, or in-home supportive services;
 - Custodial workers and who have contact with COVID-19 patients;
 - Employees of designated health facilities, paramedics and emergency medical technicians, some peace officers, and some firefighters.

Your employer can submit evidence to try to show that you did not contract COVID-19 at work. More information on these new laws is available here:

<https://www.dir.ca.gov/dwc/Covid-19/FAQ-SB-1159.html>

What benefits would I get with Workers' Compensation?

- Disability payments: Payments are generally 2/3 of the gross wages you lose while you are recovering from a work-related illness or injury, up to a maximum weekly amount set by law.

³ On May 6, 2020, Governor Newsom signed Executive Order N-62-20, which states that if you test positive for or are diagnosed with COVID-19 within 14 days after you performed work for your employer outside of your home, it is presumed that you contracted COVID-19 at work. This Executive Order was codified and expanded upon by the California Legislature by SB 1159, which took effect on September 17, 2020.

- If you have paid sick leave available that was provided specifically in response to COVID-19, you may be required to use that paid sick leave before being paid disability benefits.
- Medical treatment

How do I get Workers' Compensation benefits?

To file a workers' compensation claim, an employee must file a DWC-1 claim form with their employer. Learn more about your eligibility for workers' compensation here:

<https://www.dir.ca.gov/InjuredWorkerGuidebook/InjuredWorkerGuidebook.html>

To be presumed to have contracted COVID-19 at work, you must obtain certification of your temporary disability, usually within 15 days of your diagnosis. If you believe you are entitled to Worker's Compensation benefits, you should contact a Worker's Compensation attorney immediately.

5. If I can't work because I need to take care of a family member who is sick, how can I get money?

There is more than one potential way to get income replacement when taking care of a sick family member, including California Paid Sick Days, Emergency Paid Sick Leave, and Paid Family Leave.

➤ California Paid Sick Days

Even before COVID-19, all employees in California had the right to at least 3 paid sick days that may be used for the prevention, diagnosis, or care of the worker's illness or a family member's illness. Some cities require employers to provide more than 3 paid sick days. Please see the California Paid Sick Days section above for more details.

➤ Federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave

The federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave Act requires employers to pay up to 2 weeks of paid leave if you are caring for someone who is subject to a quarantine or isolation order related to COVID-19 or has been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19. You may qualify for Emergency Paid Sick Leave if paid leave if you are currently working or voluntarily taking leave from work, and, in some areas of the state, only if your employer has fewer than 500 employees. See the Emergency Paid Sick Leave section above for more details.

➤ Local Supplemental Paid Sick Leave

If you are not covered by the federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave Act, you may qualify for up to 2 weeks of paid sick leave under a local ordinance if you live in an area that enacted its own paid sick leave law. Los Angeles, San Jose, San Francisco, and Oakland have all enacted ordinances requiring employers with more than 500 employees to provide up to 2 weeks of paid sick time to employees that need to take time off because they are sick or quarantining due to COVID-19, need to care for a family member who is sick with COVID-19, or who cannot work because their child's school or childcare is closed due to COVID-19.

See Appendix 1 for a chart of local paid sick leave ordinances.

➤ Paid Family Leave (PFL)

What is Paid Family Leave?

- Paid Family Leave pays part of your wages or salary if you need to take unpaid time off work or are unable to look for work because you are bonding with a new baby or caring for a close family relative who has a serious health condition. This includes caring for a child, parent, parent-in-law, grandparent, grandchild, sibling, spouse, or domestic partner.

How much is Paid Family Leave?

- Paid Family Leave can give you 60% or 70% of your income, up to $1,300 per week, for up to 6 weeks.
- Applicants who filed after July 1, 2020 are eligible for up to 8 weeks of PFL.

Who is eligible for Paid Family Leave?

- You must be employed or actively looking for work at the time your family leave begins.
- The serious health condition must be certified by a healthcare provider or a public health officer.
- You must have paid into State Disability Insurance (noted as “CA SDI” or “State Tax” on paystubs) in the past 5 to 18 months.
- For a complete list of requirements, go to the EDD website:
https://edd.ca.gov/Disability/Am_I_Eligible_for_PFL_Benefits.htm
- Citizenship and immigration status do not affect eligibility.

Where do I apply?

Apply online with EDD here. If you are undocumented, you may apply using a paper application and leaving blank the box requesting a social security number. You may need to provide your W2s.

6. What if my child's school or child care is closed and I have to miss work to care for them?

➤ You may be eligible for Unemployment Insurance Benefits

EDD is advising people to apply for Unemployment Insurance Benefits if they have lost income because they miss work to care for a child and have exhausted all other care options.

- Please see the section above on Unemployment Insurance Benefits for the requirements to apply. For instructions on how to apply, please see Question 13.
- You may need to provide documentation to EDD that you have exhausted your child care options.

➤ Federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave

The federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave Act requires employers to pay up to 2 weeks of paid leave if you are unable to work because your child's school or daycare has been closed for COVID-19-related reasons. You may qualify for Emergency Paid Sick Leave if paid leave if you are currently working or voluntarily taking leave from work, and only if your employer has fewer than 500 employees. See the section above on Emergency Paid Sick Leave for more details.

➤ Local Supplemental Paid Sick Leave

If you are not covered by the federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave Act, you may qualify for up to 2 weeks of paid sick leave under a local ordinance if you live in an area that enacted its own paid sick leave law. Los Angeles, San Jose, San Francisco, and Oakland have all enacted ordinances requiring employers with more than 500 employees to provide up to 2 weeks of paid sick time to employees that need to take time off because they are sick or quarantining due to COVID-19, need to care for a family member who is sick with COVID-19, or who cannot work because their child's school or childcare is closed due to COVID-19.

See Appendix 1 for a chart of local paid sick leave ordinances.

➤ Federal Emergency Family and Medical Leave Act Expansion Act (EFMLEA)⁴

What is EFMLEA paid leave?

- The EFMLEA requires an employer to pay up to 10 weeks of paid leave at 2/3 the employee's regular rate of pay if they need to miss work because they need to care for a child whose regular school or childcare is closed because of COVID-19, up to $200 per day or $10,000 total.

⁴ The Emergency Family and Medical Leave Expansion Act (EFMLEA) is a federal law that went into effect April 1, 2020 as part of the FFCRA. The Act is set to expire on December 31, 2020.

- Your employer is not required to pay for the first 10 days of your leave (but you may qualify for paid leave under the EPSLA during that time, explained above).
- These benefits expire on December 31, 2020.

Who qualifies for EFMLEA paid leave?

- To qualify, you must be currently employed and either working or voluntarily taking time off from work.
- You must be unable to work or telework because you are caring for a child whose school or daycare is closing or unavailable because of the coronavirus.
- You must work for an employer with fewer than 500 employees. Some small businesses with fewer than 50 employees are exempt, as are some healthcare providers or emergency responders.
- You must have worked for your employer for 30 days.

I think I qualify. How do I get paid leave under the EFMLEA?

You must request EFMLEA leave from your employer. You should do so in writing as soon as you know you will need to take leave. You must provide your employer the following information:

- Your name;
- The date(s) for which you request leave;
- The reason for leave; and
- The name of your child;
- The name of the school, place of care, or child care provider that has closed or become unavailable; and
- A statement that no other suitable person is available to care for your child.

➤ If you do not qualify for UI or other leave, you may qualify for Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA). See the section below on Pandemic Unemployment Assistance for more information.

➤ Your job may be protected under the Family School Partnership Act

This protects you from losing your job while you need to miss work. If your employer has at least 25 employees, you may be eligible to receive up to 40 hours of job protection per year (see California Labor Code section 230.8).

7. What if I am a gig worker, self-employed, or an independent contractor?

➤ You may be eligible for Unemployment Insurance if you are misclassified as an independent contractor.

Generally, only employees are eligible to receive Unemployment Insurance Benefits, not independent contractors. However, many workers are misclassified as independent contractors when they are, in fact, employees under California law and entitled to employee protections and benefits such as Unemployment Insurance Benefits.

The EDD will decide whether you were misclassified by applying California law. For more information about whether you are misclassified, go to the EDD website here: <https://www.labor.ca.gov/employmentstatus/workers/>. If you think you may have been misclassified, you should request that EDD conduct a “wage audit” to determine whether you are entitled to UI benefits. If the EDD decides that you are an independent contractor, you will automatically be considered for benefits under the Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA) program. For more information on applying for benefits, see the resources from Gig Workers Rising: <https://gigworkersrising.org/get-informed/covid19-resources/>

➤ Make sure to also check the other requirements for unemployment benefits in the response to Question 1.

➤ You may be eligible for Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA), provided by the CARES Act.⁵

If you are sure that you are truly an independent contractor, are self-employed, or don't qualify for UI benefits because you are a part-time worker, don't have enough employment history, have already exhausted all your UI benefits, or are serving UI penalty weeks, you may qualify for Pandemic Unemployment Assistance.

What is PUA?

- PUA is monetary assistance for workers that are excluded from Unemployment Insurance Benefits, including:
 - a. Self-employed workers, including independent contractors,
 - b. Gig workers,
 - c. Freelancers,
 - d. Workers who do not have a long enough work history to qualify for unemployment benefits, or
 - e. Workers who have exhausted their regular UI benefits.

⁵ PUA is available as part of the CARES Act, which was signed into law on March 27, 2020.

- PUA is available from January 27, 2020 until December 31, 2020.
- PUA is NOT available for undocumented workers.
- PUA is NOT available if you are eligible for Unemployment Insurance Benefits, even if you are only eligible to receive a small amount of benefits.

Who qualifies for PUA?

- You must be legally authorized to work in the U.S.
- You must be unable to telework with pay and cannot be receiving paid sick pay.
- You must be ineligible to receive regular Unemployment Insurance Benefits
- You can't work because of any one of these reasons:
 1. You have been diagnosed with COVID-19 or are experiencing symptoms of COVID-19 and are seeking a medical diagnosis.
 2. You are unable to work because a health care provider advised you to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19.
 3. A member of your household has been diagnosed with COVID-19.
 4. You are providing care for a family member or a member of your household who has been diagnosed with COVID-19.
 5. A child or other person in the household for whom you have primary caregiving responsibility is unable to attend school or another facility that is closed as a direct result of the COVID-19 and the school or facility care is required for you to work.
 6. You became the breadwinner or major support for a household because the head of the household has died as a direct result of COVID-19.
 7. You have to quit your job as a direct result of COVID-19.
 8. Your place of employment is closed as a direct result of COVID-19.
 9. You were scheduled to start a job that is now unavailable as a direct result of the COVID-19 public health emergency.
 10. You are unable to reach the place of employment as a direct result of the COVID-19 public health emergency.
 11. If you work as an independent contractor with reportable income, you may also qualify for PUA benefits if you are unemployed, partially employed, or unable or unavailable to work because the COVID-19 public health emergency has severely limited your ability to continue performing your customary work activities, and has thereby forced you to stop working.

How much is PUA?

- You will receive a minimum of $167 per week (possibly more depending on your previous earnings).
 - From March 29, 2020 until July 25, 2020, recipients also received an extra $600 per week under the CARES Act.

- For benefit weeks after July 26, 2020, you will receive an extra $300 per week for at least three weeks under the Lost Wages Assistance⁶ program. To be eligible for the extra $300 per week, you must have been awarded at least $100 per week in benefits and certified that you are unemployed due to COVID-19, either in your unemployment benefits application or with a subsequent certification form sent by EDD. The extra $300 per week is available for a “limited time” only.
- If eligible, claimants will be able to receive up to 46 weeks of benefits.
- Regardless of when you apply, your benefits may be retroactive to weeks starting on or after February 2, 2020. The effective date of your claim will begin the Sunday of the week when you last worked and became unemployed due to reasons directly related to COVID-19.

How do I apply for PUA? The fastest way to apply for benefits is online through the Employment Development Department (“EDD”) at the following link:

https://edd.ca.gov/Unemployment/UI_Online.htm

You can also apply for PUA by phone. As of the time of this guide, the paper application has not yet been updated to include PUA. See Section 13 for details.

What do I need to apply? You do not need to submit any documents to apply -- you just need your total income for the 2019 calendar year.

What if I already applied for UI, but I want to apply for PUA?

If you are receiving UI benefits or qualify for UI benefits, you are not eligible for PUA. If you have applied for UI but have been denied, or have not received a determination, you can apply for PUA using the UI / PUA application.

If you received a UI award indicating $0 in benefits available, see the EDD’s guidance for the latest recommendations on how to proceed here:

<https://www.labor.ca.gov/pandemic-unemployment-assistance-pua-program/>.

➤ If you work in the food sector, work for an entity with 500 or fewer employees, and are still employed, you may qualify for paid sick leave.

Under Labor Code 248, hiring entities in the food sector must pay up to 2 weeks (or 80 hours) of paid leave if a worker is sick with COVID-19 or is required to quarantine (see the above section on California Supplemental Paid Sick Leave for details). Labor Code 248 also applies to independent contractors and “gig” workers who work for entities with more than 500 employees nationwide, so long as the worker does work for the hiring entity outside of the home.

⁶ The Lost Wages Assistance program was authorized by Presidential Memorandum on August 8, 2020. EDD started distributing these funds on September 7, 2020.

Under Labor Code 248, eligible workers in the food sector range from farmworkers to those workers who work in the retail food supply chain, including pick-up, delivery, supply, packaging, retail, or preparation. This includes grocery workers, restaurant or fast food workers, workers at warehouses where food is stored, and workers who pick-up or deliver any food items.

Labor Code 248 applies if you are currently working or voluntarily taking leave from work. For more information, see the Labor Commissioner's FAQ:

<https://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/FAQ-for-PSL.html>.

➤ You may also be eligible for other benefits:

- CalFresh (food stamps): Apply here: <https://www.getcalfresh.org/>
- General Assistance: More here: <https://www.cdss.ca.gov/county-offices>

8. What benefits can I receive if I am undocumented?

➤ If you otherwise meet the requirements, you may be eligible to receive:

- State Disability Insurance
- California Paid Sick Days
- Paid Family Leave
- Federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave
- California Supplemental Paid Sick Leave
- Emergency Paid Family Leave
- Workers' Compensation

➤ Do I qualify for Unemployment Insurance Benefits or Pandemic Unemployment Assistance?

No. You are not eligible for UI benefits or Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA) unless you have some form of work authorization.

➤ Public Charge Rule: United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) has stated that it will not consider treatment or preventative care related to COVID-19 as part of the public charge inadmissibility determination. State benefits that are not funded by federal dollars will not be considered under the Public Charge rule. For more information on how obtaining benefits may impact your application for adjustment of status, consult an immigration attorney.

9. Can my employer fire me if I get sick or am quarantined?

There are several laws that may protect your job (and possibly your health insurance benefits) so that when you come back from time off, your job or a similar one will be waiting.

➤ California Family Rights Act (CFRA) & Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA)

What is the CFRA / FMLA?

- The CFRA and FMLA can each provide unpaid leave for up to 12 weeks to care for a serious health condition. This protects your job while you are on leave, which means that you cannot be fired and at the conclusion of your leave you have the right to be reinstated to the same or comparable position (regardless of layoffs). The 12 weeks do not have to be taken all at once.
- During your leave, your employer must continue your health benefits.

Who is eligible for CFRA / FMLA leave?

- A worker who has a serious health condition that requires time off from work.
 - Coronavirus is a serious medical condition, but FMLA / CFRA leave is not available for people who are quarantined or complying with shelter-in-place orders who do not have any symptoms.
- The worker must have worked for the employer for at least 1 year (but the year of service doesn't need to be consecutive).
- The worker worked at least 1250 hours for the employer in the previous year.
- The worker's employer must have more than 50 employees within a 75 mile radius of the worker's job location. Starting January 1, 2021, the CFRA will apply to employers with 5 or more employees.

How do I request CFRA / FMLA leave?

- Contact your employer in writing (for example, by text or email) and communicate your desire for leave under the FMLA / CFRA.

➤ Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) & Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

What is the FEHA / ADA?

- Under the FEHA / ADA, your employer may be required to provide you with unpaid leave from work as an accommodation for your medical condition.
- There is no requirement under the FEHA or ADA that your employer continue your health benefits.

Who is protected under the FEHA / ADA?

- The worker's employer must have at least 5 employees (under the FEHA) and 15 employees (under the ADA).

- The worker must have an “actual disability,” which may include having a compromised immune system, or if you are experiencing severe complications from coronavirus, such as pneumonia.

How do I get protection under the FEHA / ADA?

- Contact your employer in writing (for example, by text or email) and explain that you have a disability under the ADA and FEHA definition and that you are requesting an accommodation of unpaid leave. You need to state when you expect to return to work (e.g., 8 weeks).

10. Can my employer fire me if I need to take care of a sick family member?

There are state and federal laws that protect your job when you take care of sick family members, making sure that you can go back to your job after your leave.

➤ California Family Rights Act (CFRA) & Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA)

- Up to 12 weeks of unpaid leave is available under the CFRA / FMLA for workers that need to take time off work to care for a parent, spouse, domestic partner, minor child, adult dependent child with a serious health condition. This protects your job while you are on leave. It also requires that employers continue your health benefits.
- For requirements and eligibility, see Question 8 above.
- You may also be entitled to all or part of your salary while you are on leave. See Question 8 above for more information.

11. What if my employer discriminates or retaliates against me for being sick?

If your employer discriminates or retaliates against you because you are sick, there are several laws that may protect you.

➤ Fair Employment and Housing Act (FEHA) / Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA)

What is protected under the FEHA and ADA?

- Under the FEHA and ADA, an employer may not discriminate or retaliate against an employee because of the employee's disability. This includes discriminating against an employee for being associated with someone with a disability.
 - For example, an employer may not:
 - Fire an employee because they have or have been exposed to coronavirus.
 - Fire an employee because they have a family member who has been exposed to coronavirus.
- If you have a disability (as defined by the FEHA / ADA), you have the right to reasonable accommodation, such as teleworking, when you request it.
- Your employer must keep employee medical information confidential and private.
- Employers may not ask employees if they have medical conditions that put them at increased risk of severe illness or complications should they contract coronavirus.
- Employers may ask employees if they have coronavirus, or symptoms associated with coronavirus.

Who is protected under the FEHA and ADA?

- The FEHA and ADA only apply to employers of a certain size. The FEHA applies to employers with 5 or more employees, and the ADA applies to employers with 15 or more employees
- The employee must have a "disability" as defined by the law, be "regarded as" having a disability, or be associated with a person with a disability.

12. What if I am pregnant and I need to take leave?

If you are pregnant and need to take leave, you may be eligible for job protection and income replacement.

➤ Job Protection: Pregnancy Disability Leave (PDL)

What is pregnancy disability leave?

- The Pregnancy Disability Leave Act provides a worker up to 4 months of unpaid leave if they are “disabled by pregnancy.” A worker can be “disabled by pregnancy” if there is a risk to the pregnancy or after successful completion of pregnancy.
 - You may qualify if your pregnancy is at risk due to possible exposure to the coronavirus.
- During your leave, your employer must continue your health benefits.
- If you need more than 4 months of leave, the California Family Rights Act may provide additional job protection. See more information in Question 8 above.

Who does it protect?

- California’s Disability Leave law applies to most employers with 5 or more employees.

➤ Income: State Disability Insurance (SDI) and Paid Family Leave (PFL)

- During your pregnancy and after birth, you may be eligible for income replacement through State Disability Insurance. See Question 6 for details.
- After your baby’s birth, you may be eligible for Paid Family Leave while you are bonding with your baby. See Question 7 for details on requirements.

13. How do I apply for Unemployment or Pandemic Unemployment Assistance?

You can apply for unemployment benefits online, by fax, by mail, or by phone.

14. What information will I need to start a claim for Unemployment Insurance?

- Personal Information: Social Security Number, drivers license or State ID card number, work authorization documents (if not a United States citizen).
- Work History Information: Employer information including legal company name, supervisor's name, address (mailing and physical location), and phone number.
 - Try to use the official name of the business on your paycheck or W-2.
 - Information on all the employers you worked for during the past 18 months, including name, address (mailing and physical location), the dates of employment, gross wages earned, hours worked per week, hourly rate of pay, and the reason you are no longer working.
- Helpful employment related documents to have on hand:
 - Last paystub and W-2 from last employer (or 1099 if you believe you were improperly paid as an independent contractor).
- Also see the EDD checklist at this link: https://www.edd.ca.gov/pdf_pub_ctr/de2326.pdf

15. What if I already exhausted all of my Unemployment or PUA benefits?

- You may qualify for the Pandemic Emergency Unemployment Compensation (PEUC):⁷ PEUC provides an additional 13 weeks of UI or PUA benefits, in addition to the regular 26 weeks of benefits.

How do I get PEUC?

If your benefits started on or after June 2, 2019, EDD will automatically file for PEUC for you. You should receive a notice through the mail about 5-7 days after the PEUC extension has been filed by EDD. You can also check for updates on your UI Online account, if you have one.

If your benefits started before June 2, 2019, EDD is recommending that you file another UI claim through UI Online. EDD will determine if you qualify for a new regular UI claim or the PEUC extension.

- You may qualify for the Federal-State Extended Duration (FED-ED) extension: FED-ED provides up to 20 weeks of additional benefits for people who used all of their unemployment benefits during a period of high unemployment.

How do I get FED-ED?

If you are eligible, EDD will automatically file your FED-ED extension after you collect all PEUC benefits or after the PEUC extension ends, December 31, 2020, if FED-ED benefits are still available.

After EDD files your extension, EDD will mail you a Notice of Determination for Federal-State Extended Duration Benefits within 5-7 days. This notice will include the effective date of the extension, eligibility requirements, and your potential benefit amounts. You will then need to complete the usual bi-weekly certifications to determine eligibility for ongoing payments.

- You may qualify for Pandemic Unemployment Assistance (PUA):⁸ PUA is available for claimants who have collected all unemployment benefits for which they were eligible and remain employed or partially unemployed as a result of COVID-19. This means that you were qualified for regular UI but have exhausted those benefits, as well as any extended benefits (such as PEUC or FED-ED). See Question 5 for more on PUA.

⁷ PEUC is provided by the CARES Act, which was signed into law on March 27, 2020.

⁸ PUA is provided by the CARES Act, which was signed into law on March 27, 2020.

16. What if I am required to work but I do not think that it is safe to do so?

- If you have been recommended or required to quarantine, you may qualify for Federal Emergency Paid Sick Leave or California Supplemental Paid Sick Leave.
Your employer may be required to pay up to 2 weeks of paid leave if you have been advised by a health care provider to self-quarantine due to concerns related to COVID-19 or been required to quarantine by your employer. See the response to Question 4 for more information.
- If you have a preexisting medical condition that makes you more vulnerable to COVID-19, you may be entitled to leave or an accommodation. You may also be entitled to SDI.

If your preexisting condition qualifies as a "serious health condition" under the FMLA and CFRA, you may be entitled to leave from work or a reasonable accommodation such as telecommuting to work. See Question 9 for more information. You may also qualify for State Disability Insurance Benefits. See the above section on SDI for more information.

In addition, some localities, such as Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Oakland, have enacted paid sick leave ordinances requiring employers to provide up to 2 weeks of paid sick time if the employee is unable to work due to COVID-19, including if the employee is over 65 or has a preexisting condition that makes them more vulnerable to the virus. See Appendix 1 below for details on these local ordinances.

- You may have protections under Labor Code Section 6311.
Under California Labor Code Section 6311 a worker may refuse to perform unsafe work as long as it is hazardous enough that any reasonable person would think that their health and safety would be in danger. Here are some steps you can take:
 - First, offer to do the work only if the employer is willing to make work safe. Under the current circumstances, that may be only to offer to work from home. Alternatively, the employer should provide proper personal protective equipment to make the work safe.
 - If the employer refuses, and the worker refuses to do work because they reasonably find it to be unsafe, the worker should offer to do other work that they consider to be safe.
- You can file a workplace safety complaint with the California Division of Occupational Safety and Health (Cal/OSHA).

The actions an employer is required to take to protect workers from COVID-19 in the workplace varies by industry. For more information about employer obligations to keep your workplace safe, see this FAQ: https://www.dir.ca.gov/covid19/FAQs_COVID-19_Safe_Reopening.htm. If you believe your employer is not implementing health recommendations during the COVID-19 pandemic, you can file a complaint with the California Division of Occupational Health and Safety, which Cal/OSHA may choose to investigate. To file a workplace safety complaint, follow the instructions here: <https://www.dir.ca.gov/dosh/Complaint.htm>.

17. My employer is asking me to return to work. How will my Unemployment Insurance Benefits be affected?

➤ If you decide not to return to work:

Your UI benefits may be affected if you refuse an offer of “suitable” employment when it is offered to you. However, if an offer to work is not “suitable,” you may have “good cause” not to return to work and would be eligible to continue to receive UI benefits. The EDD will determine whether an offer to return to work is “suitable” in light of factors such as the degree of risk involved to the individual’s health and safety.

An offer to return to work may not be “suitable” if any of these circumstances apply:

- Your employer is not permitted to reopen under the governor’s executive order because it is not an essential service or one of the industries reopening under the state’s reopening plan. More on that plan here: <https://covid19.ca.gov/roadmap/>
- You have a health condition that is “high risk” for COVID-19 and your employer will not allow you to telework. “High risk” conditions are defined by the California Department of Public Health and include individuals who are over 65 or immunocompromised, or have certain serious chronic health conditions (such as heart disease, lung disease, or diabetes);
- Your employer is not complying with all government safety regulations, such as providing protective equipment such as masks and enforcing social distancing recommendations in the workplace.
 - Statewide industry guidance on safety is available here: <https://covid19.ca.gov/industry-guidance/>.
 - Counties are also issuing their own reopening protocols, which are available on the county website, such as Los Angeles County’s website here: <http://www.publichealth.lacounty.gov/media/Coronavirus/>
- If the wages, hours, or working conditions being offered to you are “substantially less favorable” than those prevailing for similar work in the locality. For example, if you are offered a job at $20 per hour but other jobs in your community doing the same type of work at your skill level are typically paid at $30 per hour, you may have good cause to refuse the work.

If you are offered work, you must report this work offer to EDD when you certify for your continued UI benefits. This will trigger an eligibility interview by the EDD. During that interview, you will have the opportunity to inform the EDD of the facts surrounding the offer of employment that you turned down.

➤ If you decide to return to work but then become unemployed again:

Regular unemployment claims are good for one year. If before that year ends, you stop certifying benefits for two consecutive weeks, but then become partially or fully unemployed again, you must reopen the claim to collect any remaining benefits. However, if your benefit year has ended, you must file a new claim.

For updated information on this issue, see EDD's FAQ:

https://www.edd.ca.gov/about_edd/coronavirus-2019/faqs.htm#UIBenefits

18. Can my employer force me to take Paid Time Off, Vacation Time, or Paid Sick Time?

If a worker is quarantined due to the virus, an employer cannot require that the worker use paid sick leave; that is the worker's choice.

If the worker decides to use paid sick leave, the employer can require they take a minimum of two hour of paid sick leave. The determination of how much paid sick leave will be used is up to the employee.

HOWEVER, employers may require employees to use their vacation or PTO before they are allowed to take unpaid leave.

19. What if I still need to pay my taxes?

Deadline to File: In response to COVID-19, the IRS has moved "Tax Day" (the deadline to file your 2019 taxes) from April 15, 2020 to July 15, 2020.

- If you cannot file by July 15th, request an extension so you do not get a penalty. If the extension is granted, you will likely need to file by October 15, 2020.
- If you OWE any taxes, you still need to pay by July 15, 2020.

Deadline to Pay: The April 15, 2020 deadline to pay any 2019 taxes you may owe with your return has also been extended to July 15, 2020.

- The IRS will begin to assess penalties and interest on taxes you may owe, on July 15, 2020 if they go unpaid.
- If you are expecting a refund, file your return as soon as possible.
